

THE HISTORY OF AFTERNOON TEA

During the early nineteenth century tea consumption increased, and it is around this time that Anna, the 7th Duchess of Bedford is said to have complained of “having that sinking feeling” during the late afternoons.

The solution for the Duchess was a pot of tea and a light snack, taken privately in her boudoir, and later friends were invited to join the duchess in her rooms at her private residence of Woburn Abbey.

This summer practice proved so popular that the Duchess continued it when returning to London, inviting her friends to join her for “tea and a walk.” It didn’t take long before it became a social occasion for all the fashionable hostesses to practise at their homes.

Over time, the occasion became so respectable it moved into the drawing room where it became a more formal experience for guest. Before long all of the fashionable societies were sipping tea and nibbling sandwiches in the middle of the afternoon and talking strolls around some of the United Kingdom’s beautiful gardens.

PMD LOOSE TEA SELECTION

At the centre of all PMD Tea is the time-honoured tradition of skillfully hand picking two leaves and a bud. This hand picking ensures PMD Teas produce their signature bold mouthfeel along with our unmistakable aroma and flavour. The tea pickers of “leaf” are incredibly selective. Picking two leaves and bud is primarily responsible for the full flavoured richness of all PMD Tea.
